- 51 BURGOYNE'S CAMPAIGN, 1777, and the Expedition of Lieutenant Colonel Barry St. Leger, by William L. Stone.
 12mo, portraits and engravings, cloth.

Works written during the Revolution by Brunswick and Hessian officers, who served here during that time, now throw a flood of light upon the period of our national history to which they refer, and especially upon the campaign of General Burgoyne; and enable us to place before American readers the plain truth in relation to an event, which in its result was the most important of any in our Revolutionary annals.

- 52 BURGOYNE'S Orderly Book, from his entry into the State of New York until his surrender at Saratoga Oct. 16th, 1777, edited by Dr. O'Callaghan. Map of the route of the expedition, and portraits of Burgoyne, Schuyler, Reidesel, Harriet Ackland, etc. Square 8vo, xxxiv, 221

- 59 CARMICHAEL, Sarah E. Poems, privately printed. 12mo, cloth. San Francisco, 1856
- 60 CATALOGUE of Robert Strange's Collection of Pictures, with a Catalogue of his Works. 8vo, 44 p.

It would probably be impossible to duplicate this little tract, printed in London without date.

- 61 CATALOGUE of the Library of W. Elliot Woodward, sold in New York in 1869. 6810 lots. 8vo, 668 p., uncut. Boston Highlands, 1869

One of fifty copies printed on heavy tinted paper for collectors.

- 62 CENSUS of the State of New York for 1855, prepared from the Original Returns, by Franklin B. Hough. Folio, xvi, 520 p., half sheep, marbled edges, diagrams of change of population, 1790 to 1855. Albany, 1857

The first comprehensive census of the state, which will always be a work of reference of great value to the statistician.

- 63 CENSUS. The same, for 1865. Folio, cxxvi, 723 p., half sheep. Albany, 1867

Contains more extensively elaborate tables, supplementing those of the former census by new forms of statistics, embracing almost every variety of comparative tables of information respecting the population from colonial times down to the date of the present enumeration.

- 67 CHARLEVOIX. History and General Description of New France; Translation with Notes, by J. G. Shea. 6 vols., roy. 8vo, fine portraits and numerous maps, half eng. calf extra, neat and new.

This is the first translation into English of Charlevoix's celebrated and important work. Dr. Shea has added notes, corrected references, and improved the bibliography, at the same time retaining, in all its originality, Charlevoix's text.

- 68 CHRISTIAN Theology and Modern Skepticism. 12mo, cloth.
New York, 1872

- 69 CHRISTOPHER MARSHALL'S DIARY, 1774-1781. Kept in Philadelphia and Lancaster, Penn., During the American Revolution. Edited by William Duane. 12mo, 330 p., cloth.

Mr. Marshall, whose printed diary was called a Remembrancer, was by birthright a member of the Society of Friends, being of an old Pennsylvania family. His sympathy with the cause of America led to his exclusion from that religious body. These pages exhibit his zeal and activity among the Whigs of his native state, and his prominence among them. They extend throughout the period of the revolutionary contest, embracing all public occurrences. As an important adjunct to any historical work, it is mentioned that a good index accompanies the book.

- 70 CHRONOLOGY of the Origin and Progress of Paper and Paper Making, from 670 B. C. to 1877 A. D. By J. Munsell. Fifth edition, 12mo, 263 p., cloth.

The object of this is to trace the progress of the manufacture of paper not only, but of all substances used to record events from the earliest times in all countries. To this end the Babylonians impressed characters upon Bricks, specimens of which have escaped the wreck of empires and the tooth of time; the less durable papyrus of the Egyptians furnished Europe for many years with a more convenient but perishable substance, until superseded by the discovery of paper. The progress of invention and use for more than two thousand years is given in these pages. Facts no where else gathered and made accessible; the whole rendered convenient of reference by an index.

CURIOSITIES OF LITERATURE.

It is generally known that a large number of papers, varying from the size of a postage stamp to an ordinary folio, are published in this country by boys and girls, but perhaps few are aware that the number of these papers from the start has been several thousands, and that the writers have a literature of their own, represented by a library of many hundreds of titles, a few of which follow. In the titles the blood and thunder style, so charming to the youthful mind, is seen to prevail.

140 FORCE'S AMERICAN ARCHIVES. Consisting of a Collection of Authentick Records, State Papers, and Letters and other Notices of Public Affairs, the whole forming a Documentary History of the Origin and Progress of the North American Colonies, of the Causes and Accomplishments of the American Revolution; and the Constitution of Government for the United States, to the Final Ratification thereof. 9 vols., folio.

This great storehouse of Colonial and Revolutionary History was printed by order of the United States Government. It was the intention to divide the work into six series, from 1493 to 1789. The nine volumes described are all that have appeared, and the further progress of the work is suspended. The manuscript of the unpublished series is in the Library of Congress.

- 153 AMERICAN BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES. Being short Notices of Deceased Persons, chiefly those not included in the Biographical Dictionaries, by Franklin B. Hough. 8vo, 450 p., cloth. Albany, 1875

Valuable to the genealogist and biographer, containing over 6000 personal notices, collected from the magazines and other periodicals, and scattered through a great number of books that have escaped the gleanings of other collectors, and will always be difficult to find. An edition of 100 copies only printed.

- 154 AMERICAN GENEALOGIST. Being a Catalogue of Family Histories and Publications Containing Genealogical Information issued in the United States, arranged chronologically, by William H. Whitmore, A.M. Third edition, 8vo, 339 p., portrait, cloth. Albany, 1875

Every title noticed in former editions has been examined anew, and revised, and the work continued down to 1875; forming an indispensable guide to all persons engaged in genealogical pursuits. The notices of the books whose titles are given have been prepared with special reference to the wants of persons interested only in individual works. A synopsis of the contents of each genealogy is given so that the reader may judge of the extent of the book and its value to him. The additions have been numerous and important.

- 177 GENEALOGIES of the First Settlers of the Ancient County of Albany, from 1600 to 1800, by Prof. Jonathan Pearson. 4to, cloth, top gilt, 182 p. Albany, 1871

This work is the result of many years research, and contains the names and short biographical sketches, grouped by families, of all the Early Settlers and their Descendants, of the ancient County of Albany, which embraced the territory on both sides of Hudson's river, from Katskill to Schaghticoke, including Kinderhook and Schenectady. The facts are gathered from the Records of the cities of Albany and Schenectady, and of the Dutch Churches, also of Wills, Deeds, Family Pedigrees, and various other Authentic Documents; and being made entirely from original sources never before published, mainly translated out of the ancient Dutch of the first hundred years of the province, are quite full and reliable. The great familiarity of the author with the names and history of the early settlers, derived from long and patient research among the records, has enabled him to produce a remarkably full account of the generations of people that have fulfilled their destinies in this region during the two hundred and fifty years since its settlement.

Published at the request of the Surviving Members of the Battery.

- 237 HISTORICAL SKETCHES OF HYMNS, their Writers, and their Influences, by Joseph Belcher. 12mo, 415 p., cloth.

Music is said to be one of the best arts. About 1730 singing by note was introduced into Boston, and singing schools came into use. In 1745 the first organ was built in this country, and though greatly opposed, soon made its way, and choirs then followed. Writers of hymns were inspired from time to time to supply suitable subjects, and sketches of nearly two hundred of the most eminent writers of hymns in common use are here given.

- 238 HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION, by Amos Dean. 7 vols., 8vo, portrait, cloth.

- 240 HISTORY of the First New Hampshire Regiment, in the War of the Revolution, by Frederic Kidder. 8vo, viii, 185 p., cloth.

This regiment was commanded at different times, by Stark, Cilley, Scammell, and Dearborn, and was in service throughout the war. A roll of officers and privates is given, with lists of enlistments and discharges, a journal of its marches and events, and other important facts, constituting it a valuable regimental record—the only one that has been undertaken of New Hampshire forces. It mentions more than a thousand persons, whose descendants are now widely scattered over the whole country.

- 242 HISTORY of Vermont, From its Discovery to its Admission into the Union in 1791, by Hon. Hiland Hall. 8vo, xii, 552 p., with map, cloth.

An exhaustive work on the interesting portion of the history of Vermont, relating to the severe struggle which it carried on with the government of New York for the maintenance of its title; a controversy which raised the Allens, the Warrens, the Bakers, and others to distinction, by the determined resistance which they interposed to the machinations of speculators who sought to rob the early settlers of their homesteads. The purpose of the author is to treat more fully than has yet been done by any writer, of the discovery, exploration and settlement of Vermont; of the obstacles encountered in organizing a new state government, and in establishing and maintaining its independence.

- 254 INDIAN MISCELLANY. Edited by W. W. Beach. 8vo, 490 p., cloth. Albany, 1877

This volume contains interesting papers on the History, Antiquities, Arts, Languages, Religions, Traditions and Superstitions of the American Indians; with Descriptions of their Domestic Life, Manners, Customs, Usages, Traits, Amusements, Exploits, Governments, Institutions, Wars, Councils, Treaties, Manufactures, Inventions and Fabrics; also Sketches of Travel and Exploration, in the Indian country; Notes on the Early Settlements; Incidents of Border Warfare; Journals of Military Expeditions; Narratives of Captivity; Anecdotes of Pioneer Adventures; Missionary Relations; Vocabularies, etc. The object of the work is to preserve, in convenient form, valuable fugitive articles concerning the aborigines of America, which have appeared from time to time in reviews, magazines, newspapers, pamphlets, and other ephemera, liable to be lost, or so remotely dispersed as to be difficult of access to the student of this branch of American history.

- 255 INDIAN TRIBES of Hudson's River, Embracing analytically and generally the Chieftaincies in Occupation of Long Island, Rockland, Orange, Ulster, Greene, Manhattan Island, Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Columbia, and Albany Counties, etc., their Origin, Manners and Customs; Traditions; Tribal and Sub-Tribal Organizations; Political Relations; Wars; and Final Displacement. By E. M. Ruttenber. 8vo, 412 p., cloth.

The author embraces the national, tribal and local divisions of the Mahicans, the Delawares, and the Iroquois; their condition and their political position at the time of the discovery, their Wars and Treaties with the Dutch, their Wars and Treaties under the English: their actions in the War of the Revolution; the whole based on the hypothesis that their history had never been written correctly. The work also contains Biographical Sketches, Remarks upon Language, Geographical Nomenclature, Traditions, etc.—forming a complete treatise upon the Indians that inhabited the vicinity of Hudson's river at the time of the discovery of 1607, and until they were supplanted.

- 279 LIFE of John Howard Payne, the Author of Home Sweet Home, the Tragedy of Brutus, and Other Dramatic Works, by Gabriel Harrison. Sup. royal 8vo, 410 p., portrait, cloth.

Hitherto there has been but one or two short sketches of Mr. Payne's life written. The material used for this biography is principally from manuscript journals, papers and letters of Mr. Payne.

The contents embrace Mr. Payne's life from his boyhood to his death — his career as the Young American Roscius, as a dramatist, and as Consul for the United States — his opinion of the relative merits of the celebrated actors, Kean, Cook, Kemble, Cooper, Booth, and Mrs. Siddons. A detailed account of his singular adventures among the Cherokee Indians, with his own graphic description of the Creek Indian annual Festival. Account of Tunis, the manners and customs of the people. A collection of his juvenile poems, chiefly written before he was sixteen years of age, and a number of poems written at a later period of his life, never before published. Also, the five act Tragedy of Brutus, and a full list of Mr. Payne's dramatic productions. The volume is neatly bound in cloth, and has a steel portrait of exquisite workmanship, engraved expressly for the work.

- 280 LIFE and Journals of Major Gen. Riedesel, during the American Revolution, relating to the Captivity of the German Troops. Translated by Wm. L. Stone. 2 vols., 8vo, portrait, cloth.

This work is made up chiefly of Riedesel's military and personal journals during his residence in America, and of numerous letters from Washington, Gates, Heath, Burgoyne, members of the Continental congress, and other Revolutionary characters, which are now for the first time published in English. The work relates principally to the campaign in Northern New York, and the captivity of the German troops. It throws new light on many points of Revolutionary history, and is replete with original and curious descriptions of the character, manners, etc., of the American Colonies at that time, which being the observations of so distinguished an individual are of great interest.

- 281 LIFE AND TIMES of Sagoyewatha or Red Jacket, with a Memoir of the Author by his Son, by William L. Stone. 8vo, 508 p., portraits, cloth.

After the death of Brant, Red Jacket became the man of greatest distinction among the Six Nations. This was the last historical work which Mr. Stone lived to complete, and it was thought appropriate that this edition of the work should give a sketch of his life and writings.

- 282 LIFE AND TIMES of Gen. John Lamb, an Officer of the Revolution, and his Correspondence, by Isaac Q. Leake. 8vo, x, 431 p., portraits and maps, cloth.

A valuable contribution to the history of the Revolution, derived principally from the papers of Gen. Lamb, and other sources not before investigated, illustrated by plans of battle fields. Gen. Lamb commanded the post at West Point at the time of Arnold's defection, and this work consists largely of correspondence with Washington, Clinton, and other distinguished men of the time.

- 283 LIFE AND TIMES of Sir William Johnson, Bart. Superintendent of Indian Affairs, residing among the Iroquois during the Middle of the last Century, by William L. Stone. 2 vols., 8vo, portraits, cloth.

This work, which fills an important link in American History, and which was delayed by the death of the late William L. Stone, has been completed by his son; and with the lives of BRANT, and RED JACKET, by the same author, brings down the history of the Six Nations, and their relations with the British Government and its Colonies, from 1534 to 1824. The materials from which the work has been derived, are principally the original papers furnished by the family of Sir William, among which is his very extensive manuscript diary, that has never before been consulted.

- 284 LIFE OF JOSEPH BRANT (Thayendanegea), Including the Border Wars of the American Revolution, by Wm. L. Stone. 2 vols., 8vo, portraits, cloth.

This was the most noted work of the elder Stone, containing also sketches of the Indian Campaigns of Harmer, St. Clair, and Wayne; and other matters connected with the Indian Relations of the United States and Great Britain, from the Peace of 1783, to the Indian Peace of 1795, and is the last and only edition of the work having an index; also has three portraits of the Brants, a portrait of Gen. Gansevoort, and a plan of Fort Schuyler.

- 285 LINCOLN, Abraham. Life by Raymond and Sermon by Clark. 2 pamphlets.

LOCALS.

Under this heading will be found many pamphlets which though not strictly local histories all have a local significance, and with possibly a few exceptions all are historical in character.

- The field of these researches is to a great extent new ground. No full and connected account had been published of the events which transpired in this part of the Connecticut Valley during King Philip's war, or the subsequent struggles with the savages up to the close of the war of 1722-26. The histories of the two subsequent French and Indian wars, are more full, but are defective in dates and details of local skirmishes. Scarcely anything had been known of the antecedent Indian Occupation; nor of the first attempts made by the whites to gain a foot-hold here. The work will soon be unattainable.

- 401 QUEENSBURY. History of the Town of Queensbury, N. Y., by A. W. Holden, M.D. 8vo, 519 p., cloth, portraits and plates.

This is an elaborate and carefully prepared history of one of the earliest settlements between Albany and Montreal, to which the author devoted many years of investigation. The introduction consists of a resumé of the Indian Tribes and Aboriginal occupancy of the region about Lake George and the Upper Hudson, together with a very complete Indian Vocabulary of localities in Northern New York. The Historic Narrative comprises a minute detail of the affairs connected with the French war, so far as they relate to the vicinity in question. These and other subjects are richly illustrated with steel portraits and other engravings, mostly executed specially for the work.

James Grant Wilson, and Biographical and Illustrative Notes, now first given. 8vo, 376 p., portraits, etc., cloth. Albany, 1876

A charming picture of New York colonial life more than a century ago. It is not a romance nor a tale partly founded on reality, but an authentic record of facts — a record greatly admired by Francis Jeffrey, Robert Southey, Sir Walter Scott, and other great heirs of fame. A genuine picture of our ancestors prior to the changes made by the Revolution, and which suggested The Dutchman's Fireside. The scene is laid in Albany, in the time of the last French and Indian war, and the conquest of Canada by the English, the operations for which were so immediately carried on from that city, the previous editions of which are here corrected and annotated.

- 451 MEMOIR of Lieut. Col. Tench Tilghman, Secretary and Aid to Washington, Together with an Appendix containing Revolutionary Journals and Letters, Hitherto unpublished. Sup. royal 8vo, 176 p., portrait, paper, uncut. Albany, 1876

"Memoirs of the most worthy citizens are the best wealth of the state. That people is poor indeed, that has never possessed such treasures; but poorer still that having had, has lost them." Col. Tilghman was the confidential aid and secretary of Washington throughout the war, and after its close, became the partner of Robert Morris.

- 452 MEMOIRS of Madame Riedesel, Relating to the War of American Independence and the Capture of the German Troops at Saratoga, 1777. Translated by William L. Stone. 8vo, 235 p., portraits, cloth.

The translation of the Letters and Journals of Madame Riedesel made 1827, being unsatisfactory and incomplete, a new and corrected edition is here given. A portrait of the authoress, taken at the time of her marriage, together with additional notes and comments, give fresh interest to this interesting and attractive work.

- 453 MEMOIR of Mrs. Susannah Rowson, with Elegant and Illustrative Extracts from her Writings in Prose and Poetry, by Rev. Elias Nason. 8vo, 212 p., cloth.

Mrs. ROWSON was one of the most remarkable women of her day, and her life was as romantic as any creation of her own gifted pen, and is a beautiful illustration of the potency of a determined will to rise superior to circumstances and achieve success. She excelled in romance, in poetry, and in the drama; wrote geography, history and biblical dialogues. Though more widely known as the authoress of Charlotte Temple, some of her pieces keep the stage, and there are still living witnesses to her eminent success as an educator.

- 537 REVOLUTIONARY OPERATIONS in Eastern Maine and Nova Scotia, by Frederic Kidder. 8vo, 336 p., map, cloth.

A volume of hitherto unpublished papers, consisting partly of the Journal and Letters of Col. John Allen, who had command of the Indian Department of Eastern Maine. Although his services were of the highest value to the government, and the Indians were, through his activity and influence secured to the American cause, yet little or nothing seems to have been known of the operator in that quarter, his papers having escaped the knowledge of previous historians. The writers on the history of Maine have had but a feeble apprehension of the stirring events enacted at Machias, and in the region between the Penobscot and the St. Johns during the war, now here first developed.

AILING Directions of Henry Hudson. Prepared for his use in 1608 from the old Danish of Ivar Barsden, with an Introduction and Notes: Also a Dissertation on the Discovery of the Hudson River, by B. F. DeCosta. 8vo, 102 p., cloth.

"The work before us does honor to Mr. DeCosta, showing his devotion to historic research. The writer seems disposed to take nothing for granted, but to follow evidence wherever it may lead him. Such labors are vastly more valuable than the superficial expositions of some ardent enthusiast." — Hist. and Gen. Reg.

MOUND BUILDERS' POTTERY.

The great rarity of the pottery of the mound builders, which is supposed by many to antedate all other existing works by human hands, is well known to all collectors, but the fact is perhaps not generally known that since 1875 nearly every one of the western mounds that is accessible has been opened and rifled of its contents, the vessels found have been scattered far and wide, a large proportion of them having been sent abroad; many others have found a permanent resting place in public collections and the limited supply now existing in the hands of dealers receives no accessions and is being rapidly diminished, and in a very few years it will be positively impossible to obtain specimens of these most interesting and valuable works of an extinct race.

- 994 Bowl with handle, or ears, edge flaring, capacity about one quart, this vessel stands between 4 and 5 inches high, and is nearly 6 inches in diameter, the edge slightly chipped, but a very fine specimen.
- 995 Symmetrical bowl with ears, holds about one quart, one ear broken, the dish itself has been broken and neatly mended.
- 996 Urn of unusually light colored material, very hard paste, this ware is of even greater rarity than the dark colored, and this piece is in very fine condition, symmetrical in form, and handsomely finished.
- 997 Bowl with ear and handle, resembling an animal's paw, holds nearly a quart, a little fire cracked, but still a fine specimen of a very unusual form.

- 1144 NASON, Elias, Rev. Memoir of Mrs. Susannah Rowson, With Elegant and Illustrative Extracts from her Writings in Prose and Poetry. 8vo, 212 p., cloth. Albany

Mrs. Rowson was one of the most remarkable women of her day, and her life was as romantic as any creation of her own gifted pen, and is a beautiful illustration of the potency of a large, glowing heart, and a determined will to rise superior to circumstances and achieve success. She excelled in romance, in poetry, and in the drama; wrote geography, history and biblical dialogues. Though more widely known as the authoress of Charlotte Temple, some of her pieces keep the stage, and there are still living witnesses to her eminent success as an educator. The narrative of her life is thought to deserve a place in our biographical collections, a want which this work is intended to supply.
